SEI competences are so far not explicitly included in national education systems across Europe (OECD, 2015).

The SEI competencies and diversity awareness of teachers are not self-evident. Their development should be systematically supported at the system level (Downes & Cefai, 2016).

The HAND in HAND project will provide a systemic tool for EU countries to be used in school setting for developing students’ and school staff’s SEI competences.

HAND in HAND: take home message

Ensuring each child and young person has an equal chance to access, participate and benefit from high quality and inclusive education environment is a must. An engaging and relevant curriculum together with inspiring and dedicated staff and an inclusive climate is the most effective way to ensure social well being and overall growth for all. All learners and their diverse needs should be at the centre of education. They should be actors of their own learning and supported by appropriate policy actions and services coherently organized at the system level. The HAND in HAND program aims to develop such to be offered across Europe.
